ACTIVITY ALONG THE WATER FRONT

Signs of increasing prosperity continue in evidence along the waterfront. During the past few years considerable repairing about the wharves has been done, and a number of firms have made extensive improvements and alterations. In addition to other notable changes about their property the Gloucester Cold Storage and Warehouse Company are now extending their business to the adjoining wharf. The gasoline tank and small building have been removed and carpenters and pile drivers are at work preparing for the erection of a large fish shed, which will occupy a greater part of the wharf.

The wharf work is being done by Hall Brothers, who at the completion of the present job, will start on a new pier for the Frank E. Davis Company, adjoining on the west, their present Rogers street property.

Gallons of Scallops

What is believed to be the largest haul of sea scallops ever landed in New England arrived at New Bedford yesterday, when the schooner Friendship, after a week of dredging the scallop grounds off Nantucket brought in 1800 gallons. Captain Cleveland Burns and his crew received only $2 a gallon, but report that the trip was profitable, even at the low price the catch brought. Most of the sea scallops were shipped to the Middle West.

Scallop men here said that the record haul, prior to this one, was 1500 gallons.

BELIEVES SHARK POPULATION IS OVER-ESTIMATED

(Special to the Times.)

Washington, D. C., June 27.—The abundance of sharks is unknown, but it is believed that the nuisance caused by them in inshore fisheries has given rise to an exaggerated idea of their numbers, Commissioner Henry O'Malley of the bureau of fisheries declares.

This theory is substantiated by the fact that although the value of the products of the shak have been recognized for a number of years, the shark fishery has never become an established industry, O'Malley says.

According to the latest statistics taken by the bureau, the sharks utilized during 1929 were caught incidental to other established fisheries.

A shark net cannot be fished continuously since it is necessary that it be taken in at regular intervals to be dried and mended. Due to the destructiveness of the shark and the effect of sea water upon twine, it is doubtful whether a net will last longer than one year and at the most two years, the bureau states.
